

Proctoring Solutions

While we are preparing to move our classes online in case of a change in normal campus operations, the university is taking proactive measures to ensure academic integrity. Proctorio, an automated electronic proctoring solution, is available to monitor students taking online exams.

Proctorio

Proctorio is fully integrated with Canvas and offers a fully automated (AI) remote proctoring service/software solution that verifies student identity, monitors and performs video, audio and desktop recording, and allows for varying instructor security controls including flexible lockdown browsing.

Requirements

Students will require a Temple ID, high-speed internet connection, computer with a web camera and microphone, and the Chrome Proctorio browser extension. Proctorio only works with Chrome.

Documentation

- Proctorio offers informational materials and videos to faculty via a @temple.edu address:
Proctorio Training PDFs and Videos
Preview the Student Side
How Proctorio Works in Canvas
Proctorio's Help and Support Center Accessible Through Canvas
- College of Public Health (CPH) has developed extensive documentation on Proctorio. Documentation includes how to create quizzes and exams, tips and best practices, and more.

How to Request Proctorio

To set up Proctorio, please send a Help Request with the name of the faculty and Canvas course(s)/IDs. The Canvas course ID is the lengthy number at the top left side of your Canvas course screen.

Support Services

Several tutorials are available within the Proctorio program, and 24/7 online chat is available by clicking on the "gray shield" icon in the top right-hand corner of the Chrome browser.
